Mr. William H. Webster
Director, Central Intelligence Agency
Washington, D.C. 20505

Dear Mr. Webster:

As you can see from the enclosed article I wrote for World Policy Journal, I am very concerned about the topic of chemical weapons and ballistic missile proliferation to the Third World - a topic you addressed in your testimony before the Senate Governmental Affairs Committee on February 9.

Your remarks confirmed my belief that such proliferation poses a very significant threat to world security in the 1990's, and I am pleased that you are giving this problem your close attention. I think you will find that my article supports the thesis that the spread of chemical arms and ballistic missiles - along with the diffusion of advanced conventional weapons - represents a disturbing international trend.

As I will be continuing to write on this topic, I would be grateful if you could send me the full public text of your February 9 testimony, along with any other unclassified materials you might have available on these critical issues.

Sincerely yours,

Michael Klare
